WARNING.

The Tyranny of Capital Is a
Blight, Says Bishop Spalding.

Our True Policy Is Here, and
Not in the Philippine Islands.

War of Conquest Is in Contradiction of Our Boasted Principles.

ARE WE BECOMING IMPERIALISTS?

Right Rev. John Lancaster Spalding, Bishop of Peoria, Ill., devotes a chapter in his new book entitled "Opportunity" to the McKinley policy of imperialism. He says in part:

We have sympathized with all oppressed people—with Ireland, Greece, Armenia, Cuba. To emancipate the slaves we gladly sacrificed the lives of hundreds of thousands of our soldiers. And now the American soldier, who should never shoulder a gun except in a righteous cause, is sent 10,000 miles across the ocean to shoot men whose real crime is that they wish to be free, wish to govern themselves.

To say that they are unfit for freedom is to put forth the plea of the tyrant in all ages and everywhere. The enemies of liberty have never lacked for pretexts to justify wrongs; but, in truth, at the root of all wars of conquest there lies the lust for blood or for gold.

If the inhabitants of the Philippines came gladly to throw themselves into our arms, we should refuse to do more than counsel, guide and protect them until they form themselves into a stable and independent government. What then is to be thought of those who seem resolved either to rule or exterminate them, believing probably that the only good Filipino is a dead Filipino?

The argument that our policy has from the beginning been one of expansion has no application to the present crisis. By the treaty of 1783 the Mississippi river was recognized as the western boundary of the United States; but when in 1802 the Spanish civil officers whom France, having recovered Louisiana, left in command, issued a proclamation closing the Mississippi to American commerce, it at once became manifest that we could not leave the mouth of the river which flowed for more than a thousand miles through our territory in the possession of a foreign power. Thomas Jefferson, therefore acted in the spirit of a patriot and a statesman when, taking advantage of the embarrassments of Bonaparte, he purchased the whole region lying west of the Mississippi and not already occupied by Spain.

Here was a natural development, the gaining possession of vast tracts of unsettled lands which, if not peopled by American citizens would become the home of a powerful rival state, and this would involve wars, standing armies and the jeopardy of free institutions. Similar reasons justified the purchase of Florida in 1819. When in 1845 we annexed the Republic of Texas we did what the Texans themselves wished us to do. Disputes concerning the western boundary of Texas led to the war with Mexico, which, at the close of the war sold to the United States New Mexico and Upper California, including Nevada and Utah, most of Arizona and part of Colorado. These countries were scarcely inhabited, Upper California, containing not more than 15,000 people. In this whole course of expansion we followed the line of natural development.

We entered upon the possession of waste regions which were geographically part of our country, and which we were certain to fill with populations similar to those occupying the States already founded. To carry out this work there could be no need of a standing army or a powerful navy; none of making war to conquer and hold in subjection races which, being altogether unlike ourselves, claimed the right, in the establishment of a government, to be guided by their own ideas and traditions.

In purchasing these territories it may be said that we bought land and not human beings—land that was part of our inheritance. But now, following the lead of our great capitalists and trustlords, we buy at one stroke ten million human beings; beings who live in another hemisphere, who differ from us in every way, who dwell in a climate which is fatal to the white man, who can be of no advantage whatever to us, but who, if we persist in holding them, will involve us in the most serious difficulties and dangers. A war of conquest is in contradiction with our fundamental principles of government; it is opposed to all our traditions.

The thought of ruling over subject people is repugnant to our deepest and noblest sentiments. It is part of our good fortune, of our providential position and mission in the world, that our country is vast enough self-sufficient enough to make all desire for conquest an unwholesome and meaningless temptation. We have room for three or four hundred millions of human beings. If more are required and we are true to ourselves, British America will come to us without there being need of firing a gun.

We have money enough already, and our wealth is increasing rapidly. What we have to learn is how to live, how to distribute our money, how to take from it its mastery over us and make it our servant.

Our capital is fast becoming the most inhuman, the most iniquitous tyrant the world has ever known. Its tyranny is a blight and curse to those who exercise it, as well as to the multitude who are its victims.

We are hypnotized by the glitter and glare, the pomp and circumstance of wealth, and are becoming incapable of a rational view of life. We have lost taste for simple things and simple ways. We flee from the country as from a desert, and find self-forgetfulness only amid the noise and rush of great cities, where high thought and pure affection are well nigh impossible. How far we have drifted from that race of farmers who threw off the yoke of England and built the noble state; who believed that honor was better than money, freedom than luxury and display! Their plain democratic republic is no longer good enough for us.

We are become imperial. We must have mighty armies and navies which shall encircle the earth, to bring into subjection weak and unprotected savages and barbarians.

We are the victims of commercialism; we have caught the contagion of the insanity that the richest nations are the worthiest and most enduring. We have lost sight of the eternal principles that all freedom is rooted in moral freedom, that riches are akin to fear and death, that by the soul only can a nation be great.

If we have but the courage to look steadfastly and to see things as they are we shall easily perceive that our true work lies here, and not ten thousand miles away. We are the foremost bearers of the most precious treasures of the race. In the success of the experiment which we are making the hopes of all noble and generous souls for a higher life of mankind are centered. If we fail, the world falls; if we succeed, we shall do more for good of all men than if we conquered all the islands and continents. Our mission is to show that popular government on a vast scale is compatible with the best culture, the purest religion, the highest justice, and that it can permanently endure. In comparison with this what would be a thousand groups of Philippines?—what the most brilliant career of imperial pomp and glory?

HAD THEIR FUN.

Doings of Some of Our Patriotic Citizens on the Glorious Fourth.

Pat Fallon read Rick Quinn's letters from Ireland to his friends.

Henry Mason was kept busy trying to supply the demand for his ice cream.

Jim Ross mixed patriotic todes for his friends until the fireworks began.

John Hennessy spent the day looking for recruits for Division 4 of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

Steve McElliott several times told the story of how Emmet O'Sullivan was lost on a recent trip to Cincinnati.

Will Schnell, Mike Flahive and John Cavanaugh sought a shady spot in company with a key of a cool refreshing beverage.

Dr. C. F. Melton tried to figure out his baseball coin's average for the season.

John M. Elliott remained at Twelfth and Main, entertaining his friends and attending strictly to business.

John Keane devoted the day to the youngster who lately arrived at his home.

JEFFERSONVILLE.

William Garrity, the well-known saloon keeper, left on the Fourth for Sellersburg to spend several days with friends.

Mr. Tim Kenney, of Ohio Falls, has accepted a position with John Hickey, at Fourteenth and Main streets, Louisville. He was formerly employed with M. J. Madden, where he made many friends, whom he will be glad to meet at his new place.

Dennis Gorman, who has been seriously ill at Mercy Hospital, has recovered and will resume his duties as guard at the Reformatory.

Mrs. Robert Gleason, of Ohio avenue, is spending several weeks with her parents on Floyd Knobs.

John Cavanaugh, of Illinois avenue, is the proud father of a bouncing boy. Mother and boy are doing fine.

GOOD BEER.

In this issue will be found an article from the United States Health Reports, which declares that the beer of Senn & Ackerman, of this city, is the best and purest made. These health reports are the highest American authority. The staff of physicians find this beer yields the greatest tonic strength and excels as a table drink for wives and children. Messrs. Senn & Ackerman are to be congratulated, and local dealers should patronize this home brewery in preference to all others.

DEATH OF ROBERT STRUBE.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Robert Strube, one of the best known young men in the East End, which occurred Wednesday night. He was a prominent member of Trinity Council, Y. M. I., and that society will attend his funeral in a body this morning at St. Martin's church.

EXCELLENT PHOTOGRAPHY.

The finest and most attractive photography of the year is now being done at Wybran's studio, Fourth avenue. Many of our best half-tones are made from his pictures. See his advertisement in another column.

BARBEE & CASTLEMAN.

In another column will be found the advertisement of the largest and most substantial insurance agency in the South. Messrs. Barbee & Castleman are too well known to need further introduction. They represent many strong companies.

A thorn in the bush is worth twin the flesh.

PRIDE OF THE NAVY.

Her Armor and Armament and the Part She Took in Destroying Cervera's Fleet.

The Oregon is the pet of the navy. Her wonderful run around Cape Horn during the American-Spanish war and her magnificent work at Santiago, when she was largely instrumental in destroying Cervera's fleet, endeared her to the nation. She left Puget Sound early in 1898, under Capt. Charles E. Clark, and covered the distance around the Horn in eighty-one days to join Admiral Sampson's fleet. It was a record-breaking voyage for a battleship. The run included 4,500 knots without stop between San Francisco and Callao. Of this distance 2,484 knots were covered at an average speed of thirteen knots. In ten hours 155 knots were covered.

In the battle off Santiago the Oregon was particularly prominent. The rapidity of her fire and the quickness of her manoeuvres during the action were such as to excite the admiration of the naval officers present, including the experts from foreign nations. An eight-inch shell that was fired from her penetrated a turret of the Almirante Oquendo, exploded and killed every man in the turret. The thirteen-inch guns she carried were fired thirty-four times during the battle, her eight-inch guns twenty-eight times and her six-inch guns twenty-four times. Shells of the number of 1,670 were fired from six-pounders.

The Oregon was landed at San Francisco on October 26, 1898. She is steel built. Her hull is protected by heavy armor belts. She cost $500,000 to build.

IRELAND.

Record of the Important of the Recent Events Culled From the Press.

The death is announced at Enfield, County Meath, of Patrick Leech, aged fifty-five years.

At a special meeting of the Board of Guardians in Ballyshannon P. J. Fergus was unanimously elected Chairman.

The members of the Naul branch of the Gaelic League are doing good work in the movement for the revival of the Irish language.

The Marquis of Waterford is going to reopen the copper mines at Bonmahon. He intends to reside at the beautiful seaside place of Anestown.

Jeremiah Jordan, member of Parliament for South Fermanagh, who was seriously ill at his residence in Ennis, has recovered and is reported as having entirely recovered.

The death of Mrs. James Murphy, of Ivy Cottage, Newbridge, occurred June 3, to the regret of the people in the adjacent localities. The funeral to Barretstown cemetery was numerously attended.

Three men named Smith, McKeown and Roberts were seriously injured at the works store and was assisting James Mooney to load a creamery boiler upon a cart at the goods store. They had the boiler upon a cart and were pulling it out to put the horse under the cart; Ryan held a shaft, Mooney another and were walking backward. A stone tripped Ryan, who dropped his shaft. Mooney was unable to support the double load and the boiler heaved over, falling forward upon Ryan, killing him instantly.

At last Quarter Sessions in Mullingar Mary Anne Keane, wife of a militiaman serving in the British army at Curragh, was indicted for having stolen sixteen money bags and sums or money from the Catholic Cathedral of Mullingar. The prisoner pleaded guilty. The clerk of the court stated that other money was also missing. Judge Curran said the woman was systematically robbing the church. She had first got possession of the keys, which disappeared twelve months ago, and then helped herself to the money. She would have to go to jail for six months with hard labor.

An accident of a serious description occurred in Waterfall, five miles south of Cork City. During a thunderstorm a girl, Hannah Crowley, was looking at flashes of lightning, when one struck the house and hurled the child to the ground. Her right foot was torn into shreds and her stocking burned. The ankle was burned and the foot blackened. Her left shoulder and side were burned, her side much charred, and her clothes on the left side were torn into ribbons. The child in falling struck her head against the ground and was cut. She remained in an unconscious state for an hour and appeared stupefied while in the South Infirmary, to which she was conveyed. There were four other persons in the house at the time and one of them, Mrs. Crowley, was rendered insensible by the shock. The others say there was a smell of powder throughout the house. The roof was taken clean off the house and the wall knocked down.

Brothers at Marino, Dublin. The Christian Brothers occupy the historical mansion of the great Earl of Charlemont. A vast assembly witnessed the ceremony.

With deep regret we learn of the death of Rev. James Heany, which occurred at Carraroe. Father Heany had been for some years in Clifden, Claremorris and Islandeady, and though in failing health the news of his early death will cause deep regret to his many friends and acquaintances in Ireland and in America.

On June 7 in Ballinalee the hearing of the case was resumed in which the Crown prosecuted James J. Killeen, Secretary of the North Longford Executive of the United Irish League, on a charge of sending threatening letters to residents of the Ballinalee district, holders of grazing land on the eleven months' letting system. The case was dismissed.

Rev. Dr. Sheehan, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, administered the sacrament of confirmation to 140 children in the parish of Abbside, Dungarvan. The Bishop addressed the congregation and congratulated the parish priest on the state of the parish and the church. He was glad to find so many practical members in the confraternities of the Sacred Heart and League of the Cross.

We regret to chronicle the demise of James Whelan, Adamstown, after a very protracted illness. He was interred at Adamstown cemetery, where his friends and neighbors testified to the esteem in which he was held. He was for many years a representative of the National League and Federation. He was an exceedingly upright and honorable man, respected and liked by all who knew him.

We regret to chronicle the demise of John Burke, an old and respected citizen of Clonmel, at an advanced age. Mr. Burke was a teacher, and had a private school at Coronation Row fifty years ago. He was subsequently head master of the workhouse schools and after many years of public service resigned to carry on his private school at the old residence, where many distinguished citizens of Clonmel got their early education.

The crowbar brigade is operating in the historic barnyard of Truagh, the home of the great clan McKenna. The evictor is Lord Rathdonnell. The tenants evicted were Felix Smyth and his sister, Gertrude; James Cuth, of Mullinderry, and John Meehan, of Mullinderry. The evictors also visited the house of Owen McKenna, eighty-six years old, but as he was confined to bed they were reluctantly forced to abandon the "sentence of death."

Representatives of the several divisions of Worcester, Mass., met in Hibernian Hall recently and decided to have a field day in connection with the laying of the corner stone of the new Hibernian building. A committee was appointed to secure grounds and arrange a list of sports and prizes.

Thirty-six delegates attended the Montana State convention held at Butte, which lasted two days. Reports of officers showed a satisfactory condition financially, and renewed efforts will be made to increase the membership in all parts of the State.

Upward of one hundred delegates, representing every town and city of any size in the State, were present at the biennial convention of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Connecticut, held last month in Bridgeport.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

The membership in Minneapolis exceeds 1,000.

Division 17 was instituted at Attleboro, R. I., with forty members.

As now constituted the divisions might all arrange to meet the same week.

Tom Langan will make a splendid assistant to Secretary George Flahiff.

Thomas Dolan's friends are predicting a splendid administration for Division 1. State Secretary James Coleman states that the order is on the eve of a big success.

Frank Byrnes will be seen more frequently at the meetings of Division 2 hereafter.

The divisions of Pawtucket and Central Falls are arranging for a field day in September.

The Montana Hibernians elected D. J. Hennessy, of Silver Bow, to the State Presidency.

Divisions 1 entered upon its twenty-seventh year under most auspicious circumstances.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Montana was represented by thirty delegates at the State convention.

Division 3 of Minneapolis increased its membership 204 during the past year, the total now being 362.

The thirtieth annual afternoon and evening picnic of the order in Passaic county, N. J., will be held at Paterson today.

Division 2 of New Haven, Conn., has taken the initiatory steps toward organizing a new company of Hibernian Rifles.

Buffalo Hibernians had an elaborate picnic last Saturday. Base ball, foot racing, throwing the hammer, etc., were features.

The Hall Board has managed its affairs with signal ability, and the next report will perhaps contain some statements of a very gratifying nature.

Officer John Mullaney was given a hearty greeting at the meeting of Division 4. There are no better members than the popular policeman.

There has been an increase in membership in Essex county, Mass., of 247 since the last biennial convention. Two ladies' auxiliaries have also been instituted.

Fully 15,000 persons attended the recent joint picnic of the divisions of St. Louis, held at the Fair Grounds, when the fiftieth anniversary of the order was celebrated.

Joseph Sullivan, James Connelly, Pat Carey, John Hines, James Burke, William Connelly, William Lambert and Jeremiah O'Keefe are among last week's additions to Divisions 4.
